| Call for Reviewers: International Journal of Art, Culture, Design and Technology | February 16, 2022 - December 31, 2022 | Online 09:00 AM - 11:45 PM EST
JT Velikovsky, 0467531743
joel.velikovsky@uon.edu.au
The International Journal of Art, Culture, Design and Technology (https://www.igi-global.com/journal/international-journal-art-culture-design/41032) invites applications for Philosophy of Science journal-article peer reviewers.
We are a growing journal, currently expanding our scope - and thus our Editorial Review pool - to include Philosophy experts (including the Philosophy of Science), as double-blind anonymous peer reviewers. We also offer reviewing experience and guidance (to those that want it) to emerging scholars, for whom this would be an appropriate level of experience.
If of interest, please submit an online application via: https://www.igi-global.com/journals/become-a-reviewer/. (The publisher will be adding more Research Field checkboxes to the site, so please check any that are relevant to you, and the editor will get to know your work better through the Statement and CV you submit.)
(Of course - as always - Philosophy of Science scholars are also very welcome to submit articles to the journal at any time: https://www.igi-global.com/calls-for-papers/international-journal-art-culture-design/41032)

| Announcing a 'Philosophy of Science for Cultural Evolution' online research network | May 1, 2022 - January 31, 2023 | Online Meeting URL TBA
09:00 AM - 10:30 AM PST
Ryan, 657-278-3334
rnichols@fullerton.edu
This research group will have 12 funded participants each to receive $5000 USD and will consist of a total of nine monthly meetings tentatively scheduled to begin May 2022. Focus will be on discussion of a couple of target articles per meeting. On two or three occasions a guest speaker will be attending. The mission of this virtual research group is to catalyze new philosophical interest in foundational problems of cultural evolutionary science by provisioning a small group of excellent philosophers of science, together representing a variety of targeted areas of expertise, with the incentive and the cooperative context to enter this exciting area with ample background information, knowledge of major issues, and a network to aid ongoing collaboration.

CFP: Ann Johnson Institute for Science, Technology & Society Writing Retreat
Call for Papers
Leah McClimans, LMM@sc.edu
LMM@sc.edu

The Ann Johnson Institute for Science, Technology & Society (AJI) is delighted to announce a five-day writing retreat at the Wooden Duck Inn, based in Northern New Jersey. This retreat will take place 17-23 June 2023. Your hosts will be Suman Seth (Cornell), Leah McClimans (University of South Carolina) and Allison Marsh (University of South Carolina). The retreat's theme is Medicine, Technology and Marginalized Populations. This retreat offers five full days of writing in a country inn surrounded by acres of woodland.

This opportunity is open to any scholar with a PhD across the Science, Technology & Society disciplines with a project that fits our theme and can be reasonably completed during the retreat.

The AJI will select approximately eight participants. If selected, the AJI will reimburse economy air or ground transportation to the event venue; accommodation and meals while in residence will also be covered. The deadline for applications is 1 December 2022.
Call for Papers: The Nature and Norms of Scientific Explanation

Cory Wright, 562?985?2736
cory.wright@csulb.edu

Call for Papers:
The Nature and Norms of Scientific Explanation
Philosophical Problems in Science

Special Issue:
Submissions are invited for a guest-edited special issue on scientific explanation. Of particular interest are submissions on (i) the nature of explanation, with special attention to foundational debates between the ontic (‘OC’) and epistemic (‘EC’) conceptions, and on (ii) the norms of scientific explanation, with special attention to so-called ‘ontic’ and ‘epistemic’ norms (intelligibility, accuracy, idealization, completeness, fecundity, etc.). Relevant topics include, but are not limited to:

· Developments or critiques of OC or EC
· Explanatory metatheory
· Explanatory vehicles
· Fact causation and explanation
· Idealization, abstraction, or model-based fictions in explanations
· Non-causal or mathematical explanation
· Metaphysics of systems explanation
· Evaluating explanatory goodness in science
· Norms and aims of scientific explanations

The special issue will offer philosophers of science an opportunity to evaluate these two conceptions and to survey whether any consensus has been achieved on foundational debates, aiming to help settle what it can

Invited speakers:

Prof. Anya Plutynski (Washington University in St Louis)
Dr. Fedro Peccatori (IEO – European Institute of Oncology)
The Committee for Integrated History and Philosophy of Science, together with the Ann Johnson Institute for Science, Technology, and Society, will host “&HPS9”, the 9th conference in the series Integrated History and Philosophy of Science. We seek contributions that genuinely integrate the historical and philosophical analysis of science (i.e., the physical sciences, life sciences, cognitive sciences, and social sciences), or discuss methodological issues surrounding the prospects and challenges of integrating history and philosophy of science.

For information about Integrated History and Philosophy of Science and previous conferences, see http://integratedhps.org/en/

Please note that &HPS9 does not run parallel sessions. Hence, given the number of slots available, we regret that we cannot accept symposium submissions.

&HPS9 will feature a Poster Forum as a place to share work that fits in a poster format. Poster presenters will be invited to give a short (5-minute) flash talk on their topic. Authors may submit a poster and a paper abstract, but only one may appear on the final program.

Call for abstracts

We invite authors to submit abstracts (300-500 words) prepared for blind review for the upcoming 5th annual workshop Scientific Understanding and Representation (SURe). Please provide also information about your affiliation and contact details in a separate file. Submit your abstract via EasyChair.

Submission deadline: January 20th, 2023
Deadline for communicating decisions: February 20th, 2023
Conference dates: May 18-19, 2023

Keynote speakers: TBA

The workshop will be hybrid. The in-person portion will take place at:

University of Toronto, Toronto, Canada.

The online portion will take place via some of the common platforms and all the in-person talks will be streamed online.

We will provide links in due course.

Workshop description

Representations play a central role in scientists’ understanding of the world. From mathematical models to diagrams, different representations in highly varied contexts yield diverse insights across the physical, biological, and social sciences. Despite the fact that how a phenomenon is represented has far-reaching ramifications for how it is understood, the literatures on scientific understanding and scientific representation are largely independent of each other. The time is ripe to foster greater synergy between these two areas in the philosophy of science, as they face complementary problems—and hold the promise of complementary solutions.

The conference will be held in honor of Margie Morrison. Submissions that engage with her work are encouraged.

For more information about the workshop series, go here.
